Based on the assessment of the effects of every potential partnership, the Faculty approached the conclusion of new Erasmus + agreements with European partners. A large number of agreements with universities in the UK were concluded, which was one of the strategic objectives. Faculty provided support to students of lower socioeconomic status who were under the general criteria of excellence selected to participate in inter-university exchange. Financial aid was given to encourage students to apply for universities with which significant cooperation has not been achieved so far, particularly those in Eastern Europe.

The Faculty was invited to join the network Masters Exchange Programme in the Field of Comparative, International and European Law (CIEL). Network which includes, together with our faculty, faculties from six other European countries (Universiteit Antwerpen, University College Dublin, Maastricht University, Universität Mannheim, Universitat Pompeu Fabra Barcelona, Université de Toulouse 1 Capitole) covers a variety of initiatives, including graduate exchange program in the field of comparative, international and European law. The ninth meeting of the network took place in October 2016 in Zagreb.

Europa-Institute (Saarland) and network SEELS are in charge for the implementation of the project.
